

	is a stack of subjects' folders with "Confidential" on them – or perhaps an open folder is closed as the camera cranes down toward the desktop to square up with the computer screen	audio taped. All information derived during the polygraph procedure is held in the strictest confidence. It is provided only to a select group of Agency employees who process the data, and to certain officials with a clearly defined need to know.
	CUT TO:
22.	WS - [REDACTED] - SITTING [REDACTED] OC	When the exam is finished, the examiner will evaluate the test data and give you the preliminary results. These results represent a judgment about the truthfulness of your answers. Your test will be subject to a quality control process before the final decision is rendered.
23.	SECTION THREE WS - [REDACTED] - SITTING [REDACTED] OC [REDACTED] points the clicker at the screen on the easel to change the graphic to: GFX: Rights and Responsibilities	Before you take the polygraph examination you should fully understand your (click) rights and responsibilities.
24.	WS - [REDACTED] - SITTING [REDACTED] OC [REDACTED] points the clicker at the screen on the easel to change the graphic to: GFX: Candid and Thorough [REDACTED] points the clicker at the screen on the easel to change the graphic to: GFX: Inform the Examiner Ask Questions CUT TO:	First, you have a responsibility to be completely (click) candid and thorough in all of your statements to the polygraph officer. If you do not understand any statement or question, you have the responsibility to (click) inform the examiner and ask questions to clarify the issue. Before the examiner begins polygraph recordings, be certain you have provided the most accurate answers.

APPROVED FOR RELEASE ☐
DATE: 23-Apr-2009

31.	[redacted] VO GFX: OGC seal Justice Department CUT TO:	Bear in mind that statements regarding participation in very serious criminal activity may be reported to the Office of General Counsel. That office may provide the information to the Department of Justice.
32.	[redacted] VO GFX: More polygraph exam scenes.	The polygraph examination is a straightforward process. There are no trick questions or hidden agendas. Both you and your examiner have the same goal — the successful resolution of all of the test questions.
33.	CU to WS - [redacted] - SITTING [redacted] - OC	You will soon be asked to sign a consent agreement, stating that you understand the procedure you are about to undertake, and that you are a willing participant. If you still have questions about the test, please direct them to your examiner.
34.	WS - [redacted] - SITTING [redacted] OC GFX: CIA Seal [redacted] finishes addressing the camera. He places the clicker back on the table top, stands and exits in the same direction he entered. As he wipes the graphic screen on the easel we MATCH CUT TO:	Thank you for your participation today. We wish you success as you move forward in the CIA security clearance process. Your cooperation is essential to the CIA's mission and the security of the United States.